

This book shows how leaders can use life and leadership experience to make a more meaningful contribution to the world

It leads us into the inner world of leadership that we often tend to deny: the intuitive insight that at the core of our leadership journey is our contribution to the collective evolutionary process.

What if we all knew the place within that is at home with the universe? What if we all knew how it feels to tend the common, the very force that nurtures all of us?

Building on her own leadership journey and intensive conversations with 14 leaders from eight different countries around the world, Petra Kuenkel shows us how we can reconnect with the deeper theme of our journey and develop our own humanity as a gateway to leadership for sustainability.

“It is refreshing to find such an accessible integration of complex theory, diverse leadership voices and practically probing, reflective questions. This book is an excellent resource for anybody who is serious about personal leadership development and sustainability.”

Dave Bond, Executive Development Faculty – Ashridge Business School, UK

Petra Kuenkel, Founder and Director of the Collective Leadership Institute is an industrial psychologist by profession. She has gained extensive experience in consulting complex change management processes internationally and in building cross-sector partnerships for sustainable development. As a senior faculty member of international executive education programs, she has taught dialogic leadership development for High Potentials from Multinational Companies in the US, UK and

South Africa. Her passion lies in supporting leaders to become a committed force for good. She believes in the dialogic leadership approach to stakeholder engagement for sustainability. Petra lives in Germany and South Africa.

ISBN 978-3-8370-2799-0

Petra Kuenkel | Mind and Heart

Petra Kuenkel

Mind and Heart

Mapping Your Personal Journey
Towards
Leadership For Sustainability